

Meet our funny faces!

A note from the Directors: We gave a troupe full of comedians and artists a deadline by which they were to submit their biographies and headshots. Artists and comedians aren't very good with deadlines. So, for some of our slackers, we took the liberty of providing biographical information ourselves. Troupe members are presented in alphabetical order.

Dann Alagna, Director

While improv is always changing and still new to a lot of people, Dann is no stranger to the medium. Upon auditioning for his first improv troupe in Gainesville, Florida, he found two life-long loves: comedy and his wife, Sam. Along the way, Dann and Sam have been very involved in community theatre, improv comedy, and taking in stray dogs. Free Range Improv is the 7th improvisational comedy troupe Dann has performed in, and the 3rd he and Sam have established and directed. Bringing Free Range Improv to their new home of Annapolis is a dream, and this one-of-a-kind community has surely embraced the troupe. The goals of Free Range Improv remain simple and, with audiences like you, possible: to always perform fresh, local, 5-star comedy at purposely affordable, local prices. Think of it as a comedic farmers' market: organically grown, locally sourced, and Certified Funny!

Sam Alagna, Director

Sam directs the "back-end" of Free Range Improv. Although, she is not a performer in the troupe, Sam has a soft spot for improv comedy, as a college improv troupe was responsible for introducing her to the adorable and immensely talented man that she would marry, Dann. Nearly 2 decades, 10 cities, 2 cats, 5 dogs, and 3 improv troupes later, Dann and Sam are absolutely thrilled to have found their "Home" in Annapolis. They are truly enamored by this town, awed by the hilarious talent that they have corralled, and so grateful for the amazing local support for Free Range Improv.

Thomas Beheler

Thomas is an actor working in the Maryland area as well as a student at the University of Maryland College Park. He has been improvising for the last 5 years in numerous troupes and is so excited to now be working with Free Range Improv. His favorite food is macaroni and cheese. His favorite drink is chocolate milk. His favorite color is blue. His favorite bios are short. Enjoy the show!

Amy Chase

Free Range Improv is Amy's first foray into any type of acting or improv. She's is well-endowed...with funny.

Rosalind Fraser

Ros emerged from the head of Zeus with an innate love of all things improv. Often revered as the Greek goddess of awkward situations, she's been doing improv for about 10 years now. Ros joined Jeff, her first troupe, when she was in high school. She is now honored to be a founding member of both All Puns Intended and of course, Free Range Improv!

Justin Puig

Justin likes to joust when he's not feeling funny.

Pat Reynolds

After 18 years in the entertainment business, there is one thing Pat has learned: find the taboo and make it hysterical! When he is not with his improv compatriots, he can be seen at various local community theatres in the Annapolis, Baltimore, Bowie, and DC. He is a proud member of The Scented Candle of the Month Club and is often seen chasing puppy dogs in parks. Even as a gentleman in his "Douche bag Thirties", he still collects comic books and action figures. Pray your daughters never bring him home.

Tom "Big Train" Ryan

Tom has done improv before. For very vague reasons, he likes to be called, "Big Train".

Debbie Samek

Debbie, by nature, likes to play. "Pretending" was always her favorite thing to do as a kid, and well, some things never change. After pursuing a career in art, she was lucky to get a job as a graphic designer, she married and had kids. She then decided she needed to go back to "playing", so on a whim, began taking acting classes, most recently at The Studio Acting Conservatory in DC. She found her passion for the stage. She has been acting in community theater for many years and presently serves on the Bowie Community Theatre Board of Directors. While she enjoys creating characters and memorizing lines someone else has written, she finds it more challenging and enjoyable to make up her own. She is lucky (again) to be finding herself amongst these very talented, funny people and is honored to be a member of this troupe.

Liza Warder

Liza is a serious actress with a funny streak.

Matt "on the Guitar" Warder

Matt makes funny music.
